

Wild Wise Booklist for Woodland Park Zoo

Books for Young Naturalists

Nonfiction

Arnosky, Jim. Field Trips. 2002. ISBN 0688151736

Go bug hunting, animal tracking, bird and shore-watching with naturalist and artist Arnosky.

Behler, Deborah. The Rain Forests of the Pacific Northwest. 2001. ISBN 0761409262

Water is a defining feature of the temperate rain forests of the Pacific Northwest. Find out how its ubiquity affects this ecosystem in our backyard.

Castaldo, Nancy F. River Wild: An Activity Guide to North American Rivers. 2006. ISBN 1556525850

Learn about rivers, the wildlife that live near them, and how to preserve them.

McKay, Kim and Jenny Bonnin. True Green Kids: 100 Things You Can Do to Save the Planet. 2008.

ISBN 1426304439

Kids, parents, teachers, and community members are invited to participate in eco-wise activities from the living room to the neighborhood park.

Pandell, Karen. Photos by Art Wolfe. Journey through the Northern Rainforest. 1999. ISBN 0525458042

The ecology within the temperate rain forest of the Pacific NW is the focus of this book for young people.

Rapp, Valerie. Photos by Frank Staub. Life in an Old Growth Forest. 2003. ISBN 0822521350

Using the forests of the Pacific Northwest as a backdrop, learn what makes this habitat unique.

Robson, Gary D. Illustrated by Robert Rath. Who Pooped in the Park? Olympic National Park. 2006. ISBN 1560373377

If you've ever wondered about the scat (poop) and tracks of animals in Olympic National Park, this book is for you.

Saling, Ann. Great Northwest Nature Factbook. 1999. ISBN 0882405144

This guide features information about the region's remarkable animals, plants, and natural features.

Wright-Frierson, Virginia. A North American Rain Forest Scrapbook. 1999. ISBN 0802786790

Between the Pacific Ocean and Olympic Mountains, lies an ecological jewel—an undisturbed section of the world's largest temperate rain forest.

For more information or to check out these titles, please see the Seattle Public Library's website at www.spl.org.