

Date: 4/15/2015

Posted By: Bailey and Finnian

Wolverine Range Mapping Project

The purpose of our project is to figure out where animals live now compared to how they lived, let's say 100 years ago. We hope our project will benefit the animals as well as help us understand how we're impacting them and if we're causing something bad then we can figure out how to change what we are doing to start benefiting them.

Wolverine Range

Information on Wolverine

- * They are powerful and resemble a small bear
- * They are the largest member of the weasel family
- * Forests, taiga, tundra, mountains, tundra
- * Europe, Asia, North America
- * They eat plants, berries, dispatch smaller animals, have test to find
- * They also eat weak Caribou
- * Males sent their territory

Worldwide Distribution of the wolverine

100 years ago
20 years ago
Wolverine distribution (expert derived) 2015

We are doing this project because we want to raise awareness about being concerned and just being in general. Like for example many maps that show where wolverines lived from 100 years ago show that their population has dropped over time and that's why. These can help raise awareness that shows that their population has increased and that even though their population has increased there are still animals out there that are having huge drops in population and still are being helped even if they need the help.

Save the EARTH

Bailey and Finnian

We are doing this project because we want to raise awareness about saving wolverines and just animals in general.

Like for example making maps that show where wolverines lived from 150 years ago show how their population has changed over a 150 year time span. These can help raise awareness, that shows that their population has increased and that even though their population has increased there are still animals out there that are having huge drops in population and still aren't being helped even if they need the help.

Key

Blue Dots = 150 years ago

Green = 100 years ago

Red = 50 years ago

Grey = current, source: Wolverine Foundation, Inc.