

Cheers to conservation! Brew at the Zoo returns this fall

Tickets go on sale Aug. 5 for Woodland Park Zoo's 9th annual Brew at the Zoo

WHAT: Calling all beer and cider lovers! Raise your glass for a good cause at Woodland Park Zoo's 9th annual Brew at the Zoo. Tickets go on sale Friday, August 5!

Join the zoo October 6 for an adults-only beer tasting event unlike any other. Sample delicious imports, domestics, microbrews and ciders from 50 of the finest local breweries. While sampling, get up close and personal with the zoo's amazing ambassador animals! Plus, beer just tastes better when you know that it's doing good for the world — funds from each ticket sold directly support animal care for the more than 900 animals at the zoo, and wildlife conservation projects around the world and in the Pacific Northwest. It's sure to be one ale of a night!

Brew at the Zoo typically sells out well in advance of the event, so buy your tickets early online at www.zoo.org/brew! General admission tickets include seven tastings (with more available for purchase), ambassador animal encounters and access to some award-winning exhibits at the zoo. Premium tickets include all those things plus a commemorative tasting glass, an exclusive ambassador animal experience, early entry to the event at 5:00 p.m. and five additional tasting tickets.

Brew at the Zoo is for adults 21 and over only—valid ID is required for entry, no exceptions.
